PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Long after much of the information you acquire at West Seattle is forgotten, you will remember those enriching experiences which grew out of your participation in the observance of the traditions of the school. You will remember the friendliness of pupils and teachers, the courtesy extended to guest speakers, the cooperation of teachers and pupils in solving school problems, the emphasis on scholarship throughout the school, the fun on West Seattle Day, and the many traditional senior activities. Nothing would guarantee the perpetuation and growth of West Seattle traditions as much as your imparting them to others and living them yourselves. Yes, will you not all dedicate yourselves to this mission?

Cecil Bullock

VICE-PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

When you discover the traditions of a school you learn much about the students who go there. For traditions are the values and standards that are accepted year after year until they become part of the life blood of an institution. So with us. We believe in friendliness; in co-operation, between student and student, and student and teacher; in self discipline; in acceptance of responsibility for the common good; in an open search for truth. These are all parts of real Americanism; they are parts of us; they are our traditions.

We Remember Him . . .

Lyle Kaye loved life and loved people. Because of this he made many friends. As one of those fortunate enough to have been his friend, I will always remember how warmly he welcomed me to West Seattle.

His basic principles of living stemmed quite naturally from his belief in people and his interest in life. He loved good books but was never a bookworm, he loved vigorous sports but was more than an athlete; he never lost sight of the spiritual dimensions of life and this school, and all of us in it are better because he worked with us.

Cecil F. Bullock

I shall remember Lyle Kaye all my life. He was a good man, with the kind of goodness that combines patience and strength. But more important to me than his goodness was his ever-questioning spirit. His mind was constantly alive to all that was around him, and he tackled the problems of life with a zestfulness that was contagious. As I think of all the reading he did, all the thinking, all the eager conversing with others, I feel a restlessness within me, a dissatisfaction with laziness and mediocrity, and an urge for action. Perhaps this is our greatest tribute: that we want to be like him.

Gordon Hannaford.

To think of the years one has known Mr. Kaye in the West Seattle community as a neighbor, friend, or casual acquaintance is to remember a kind, gentle, tactful and happy man. The last meeting of the High School P.-T.A. that Mr. Kaye attended before he became ill, I remember his kind words of praise and encouragement he gave regarding the work we were doing in the school and the community. To have been able to call Mr. Kaye neighbor or friend was a rare privilege

Sincerely,
Mrs. Roger Dahl,
President of P.-T.A.

Humbly, we now see that day after day, year after year, we have shared the life of a great man. As leader, counsellor, fellow worker and friend, Lyle Kaye quietly and effectively did so we. the many things that came his way, that we scarcely noticed the doing. Now, remembering, we see him clearly - a human being who shared laughter generously, who lived actively and read avidly with equal vitality, a man called upon to suffer deeply and long whose pity nevertheless was for others, not himself, a keen observer of men, incapable of speaking harshly of another.

Now that he no longer walks with us, we know that we have been greatly privileged, and a little better, because he was our friend. Strangely, we feel more strengthened by his presence than saddened at his absence, and are grateful for having known him.

Irene Murray Lansing

To the students of West Seattle High School, Lyle Kaye was a sincere, understanding teacher. He constantly encouraged scholarship and practical thinking, and urged his students to take full advantage of educational opportunities. He strove to give his classes a better understanding of the world they live in. The students of West Seattle will always be indebted to Mr. Kaye for his endless efforts to help them toward successful living.

Tim Hill.

This is not the first annual that has been dedicated to Mr. Kaye. For many years, his service to West Seattle—school and community alike—has been realized by alumni and friends with whom he worked. Everyone who came in contact with him was impressed by his kindly attitude and interest in the well being of others. Mr. Kaye has become a symbol at West Seattle of that which is held in highest esteem. Our feeling, and the thoughts of the many whom he knew, echo the dedication of the Class of 1931: he was "beloved by the diligent, feared by the delinquent, and sincerely respected by all."

Bev. Beers.

SENIOR CLASS

VICE PRESIDENT — BOB ELWOOD

As Vice-President of the Senior Class I worked on the Senior Dance and was head of the entertainment committee for the Senior Breakfast. Also I worked on Senior Assembly. I have enjoyed working with the other officers and Mr. Rakus this year in making the Senior Class of '54 the best ever.

PRESIDENT — JOAN BAILEY

The traditions and activities we have as Seniors are the things we remember most about our high school years. I only hope the classes in the future will enjoy them as much as we have.

TREASURER — BARBARA PLUMMER

Our Senior year is drawing to a close and we ask, "What lies ahead? College? Work? . . ." Whatever it is, our success or failure lies within ourselves. So, too, hangs the fate of mankind. Our generation holds the key to the future.

SECRETARY — DAWN FITCH

Working for the Senior Class this year has really been a privilege. It's been an honor to work with kids with so much school spirit and the urge to be on top. Thank you for letting me help the class of '54 to become a real success.

ACTIVITIES

Dear Barbara,

Shanels making up

We have had so many good times, and I don't even remember that I don't really know what to write.

The best part of my school year was when because of love. I hope it can be happy, and so. every day

Every other day

I always like when I have so many things in common. Even our games are usually the same. In one case this didn't come in to money. In fact, we had it, it had in the way it did.

Every day

We also had many good times together in the past. We were always making good friends. Also our camping trips are always fun. We always go to the same place together. I think we have some good memories of it. I hope you just have to wait and see. It's not too bad. It's up to you. It's not too bad. It's up to you.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
TO THE STUDENTS

Dear Barbara,
I'm so glad to hear

CLUB

Why is it that when a past graduate returns to West Seattle High, he makes a point of visiting the Boys' Club office? There are several reasons. Maybe it's his love for chess or checkers or for just a place to sit and meditate. Whatever the reason, he knows that here he will find an air of congeniality and the alacrity of helping and gaining friends.

Vice—Al Freeman

Treasurer Jim Angstead

As every boy in West Seattle High is a member of the Boys' Club, there is an opportunity to extend his personal activities in and out of school. The advisor (J. Robert Long) assists him in finding an interesting and profitable, part time job while the small committees give him a chance to extend his school activities.

Besides helping the student during his high schooling, the club offers counseling and encouragement to those who look forward to college educations and profitable careers.

One of Boys' Club's most important social functions is the "Harvest Moon Ball." This semi-formal dance honors the football players after their season draws to a close. Planning for the ball begins weeks in advance as decorations, music, refreshments, programs, and the use of the fieldhouse are taken care of. Afterwards, the programs are secured to the lucky girl's wall and the memory just as tightly secured in the girl's (and fella's) mind.

There are many memories connected with the club and, although it hasn't been too active lately, these feelings of happiness, sentimentality and loyalty will always remain with those who have taken advantage of a very worthwhile organization.

GIRLS "W" CLUB

The Girls' "W" Club had a very successful year considering the small membership. The club didn't undertake too many projects, but the ones they did take on were successful, with the whole club's support.

The outstanding project of the year was the Christmas party given to the patients at the Harborview Hospital. This project is hoped to be the beginning of a tradition of the club.

BOYS "W" CLUB

The 1954 Boys' "W" Club was very successful. We, first, prepared and distributed booklets on every phase of the club, we assisted in the promotion of the A.I. City Lettermen's Dance. We may yet sponsor a dance—that remains unknown.

The club has a record that everyone is proud of.

Very few, except those actually involved, realize the many hours of hard work which go into the preparation of a large traditional production, such as: The Senior Play—"Annie Get Your Gun," and the Pow Wow—"Rainbow Rendezvous." The skills of many departments are utilized to build scenery, construct properties and paint backgrounds for the sets. Pictured are some of the departments at work:

After a season of thrilling wins and heartbreaking losses, the West Seattle Indians were one of the most respected teams in the league. They ended the season with a five won, two lost record. Winning their first five games and being ranked as the fourth best team in the state were only a few of the accomplishments of the Indians.

Five members of this year's squad were named to the All-City team. On the offensive team were, Wayne Traversie, center; Dave Leland, tackle, and Ted Paull, halfback. On the defensive team were, Tom Vincent, end, and Louie Tice, guard. Ted was also on the defensive team. Wayne, Dave and Ted made the Tri-City team as regulars and Tom and Louie were named as alternates.

Some of the most spectacular thrills during the season were provided by Bill Phelan, swift-footed little halfback, who made several runs of more than forty yards.

The highlight of the season was the Franklin game. Although the Quakers were outplayed, they led with one minute and thirty seconds left to play, 7-2. Then, on a triple reverse, end Ted Foss threw a forty yard pass to Don Anderson in the end zone for the touchdown which won the game.

Next year's returning lettermen will be Bill Wines, Jim Neumann and Ted Foss, all linemen.

BASKETBALL

This year's Indian basketball team was the scrappiest outfit seen at West Seattle in many years. Although they were one of the smallest teams in the league, they performed well against teams with an average height of six inches more than theirs.

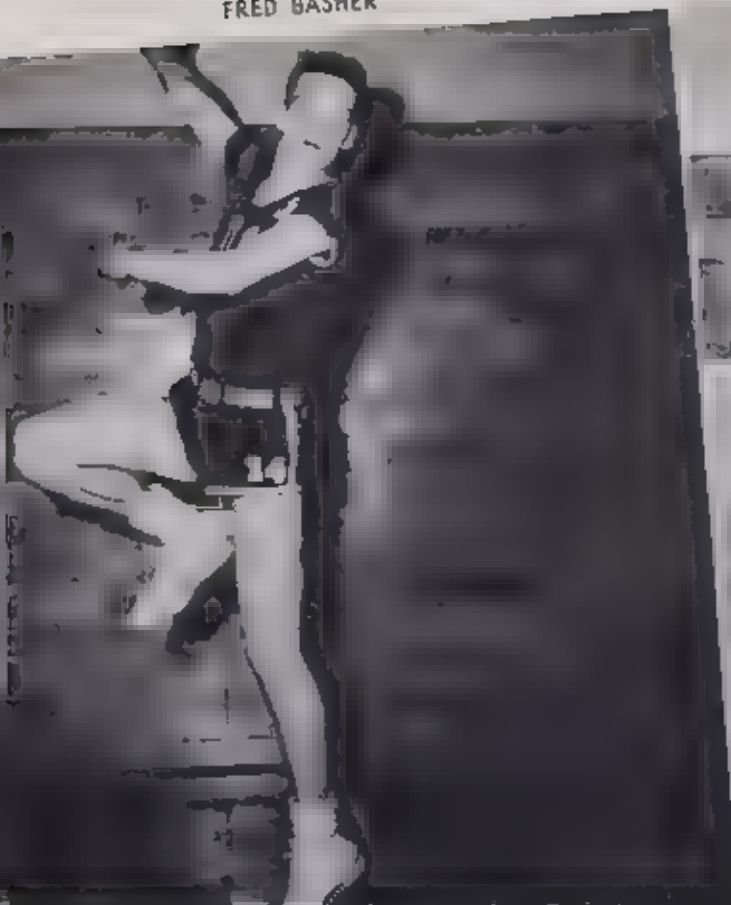

The top point getter for this year's team was Bob Jacobs, Jr., who scored 223 points. He averaged a most 16 points a game during his record-shattering performance. He was also second on this team in rebounding as well as being named to the A-City second team.

One of the city's top rebounders this year and tops for West Seattle with 110 was Stan Martys. He was one of the most valuable players on the team with his superb rebounding and fine clutch scoring. He was on the A-City second team and also was the Inspirational Award winner.

STAN MARTYSUS

In Stan Martysus and Dave Olson, Bud Pripp has two of the finest high-school pitchers in the city. With a one-two combination like that, the Indians are a hard team to beat.

West Seattle is pretty well set in other positions and has a well-rounded team.

Don Nelson holds down the catching position for the second straight year with sophomore Jerry Lawrence backing him up.

Ozzie Williams at first, Jim Harryman at second, Bob Jacobs at shortstop and Randy Mason at third are first-team regulars.

BUD PRIPP, Coach

BALL

In a preseason prediction, Bud Pripp went along with most other experts, his Indians should win the championship.

Pripp, not at all uneasy at being picked as the favorite, thinks he has one of the best teams he has coached at West Seattle.

He figures that over a long schedule his Indians wouldn't have much trouble. In a short schedule, however (12 games) luck might take over in some cases and put the Indians at a slight disadvantage.

Pomeroy Officiates At Ground Breaking

This morning at 9:40 Mayor Albin Pomeroy officiated at the ground breaking ceremony at Hiawatha Playfield.

At a recent meeting held in the mayor's office to discuss the Hiawatha playfield situation, Mayor Pomeroy stated he was a great believer in the playfield's over-flowing garden and praise. W. J. Pomeroy, president of the Hiawatha Playfield Association, stated that the work of the association was to have the field in playing condition as rapidly as possible.

Results of the meeting were that the field would be put in playing condition as rapidly as possible so that the team could practice within a week after the game on March 17. The game would probably be played on the field. The field is now in a successful condition to eliminate delays in Hiawatha field in playing condition as soon as possible.

Work completed and plans contemplated including tree removal, grading, drainage, sprinkler system, baseball and softball bases, wading pool and floodlighting. The project, estimated to cost upwards of $29,480 will result in the finest high school playfield in the city.

THE END

Each staff tries to make their book a little different than the ones before. We have tried to capture the history and the spirit of West Seattle during 1953-54. We want to express our thanks to: Lowman and Hanford Printing Company and especially to Mr. Lightner for printing our book, to Kennel E.I.s for taking our class pictures and most of our activity shots and to Mrs. Crockett for the suggestion and the quotations in the opening section. We appreciate the efforts of those faculty members and students who had part in helping to produce this book. We've had a hard working staff cooperating with us this semester and everyone has worked to his utmost to get his work completed by deadline time. Our very special thanks go to Mrs. McDonne, our advisor, who did more than her share in helping to produce this book. We hope you'll enjoy it.
